

BRIDAL PARTY GAMES

|---|---|
| Don't Say "Bride" or "Wedding" | Each guest receives a clothes pin as they arrive and it is explained to the guests only once: If you catch someone saying the word 'bride or wedding' you can take their clothes pin. At the end of the shower the quest with the most clothes pins wins a small favor or gift. |
| Word Scramble | Use a sheet of paper to create the original list, then either print out the master copy or photocopy the sheet for your guests. Come up with a list of wedding items on a piece of paper, 15-25 is good. Look over the list and determine which 10-15 would be fun for a word scramble (if you used all the letters in the word, but placed them in a different order. Example: wedding gown - would be dinwged nowg.) Give the guests the sheet to unscramble and give them 5-10 minutes to figure out. The quest with the most correct wins. Increase difficulty: Use bride's last name or future name-to-be. |
| Pass the Box | (Can be used for any type of shower) This is really fun, Take a small gift, like a pretty candle and place it in a box, then gift wrap it, but keep wrapping it with different layers of giftwrap. Play some music while passing the present around, when the music stops, the guest left holding it unwraps the first layer of wrapping paper, then the music starts again and the box is passed, then everytime the music stops, another layer is removed until someone finally unwraps the very last layer,,,,, and that is the winner. |
| The wedding dress game | The guests are divided up into several groups and given a roll of toilet paper. The teams are told that they must create a wedding dress using only the roll one toilet paper. One member of the team becomes the model and the rest decorate. Give them 3-5 minutes to create the dress. The bride will judge that results and declare a winner. Make sure to have the camera ready for this one. A great way to get everyone involved. |

| Panty hose game | You take everyone and put them in a circle. You then blindfold the first player and hand them a paper bag filled with old nylons. The object is to put as many pairs of socks/nylons on your hands. Each person gets 2 minutes to put on as many pairs as possible. The person who gets the most pairs on is the winner. | |
| Who knows the bride and groom | You take as many questions about the Bride and groom or/and the wedding and you write about 10-15 question, and you make worksheet type papers, you hand them out to the guests and have them answer them give them 3-5 minutes to complete. Sit the Bride to be in the middle and you read the question and have the bride answer them and see who gets the most right! | |
| Create a Calendar activity | Use a blank calendar from a scrapbook store to create a calendar for the bride and groom's first year of marriage. Start at their wedding month with each person at the party doing a month and then pasting it in the calendar (instead of taking the pages all apart and risk pasting them in the wrong order or something). | |
